

LEAK AT GLASS PLANT CAUSES EXCITEMENT

Leak and Substance Run Into Basement—Little Damage is Done.

Just as people were going to work yesterday morning the sounding of the fire alarm caused them to quicken their steps and run in all directions looking for the cause of the alarm.

The cause of the alarm was the breaking out of one of the large tanks which is full of molten glass, allowing the lava-like substance to flow out over the floors and into the basement. Although this building is as near fire proof as it is possible to have the situation looked serious for a few minutes. The staff, however, soon had the plant back in operation and by the time the fire brigade arrived all danger was over.

Owing to the great demand for the goods manufactured at this plant it did not close down for repairs as early in the season this year.

French and British Make Advances

Both north and south of the Somme river in France the British and French troops at various points are making up their vigorous offensive against the Germans, and have achieved further successes and put down strong German counter attacks.

South of the Somme, the British captured a strong German work advancing the British line to a depth of about 1,000 yards along a one-mile front.

Fierce artillery fighting is still in progress on the sectors of the Peronne-Bapaume road, recently captured by the French.

There is considerable artillery activity in the Champagne region. On the Verdun front the French have captured a trench on the southern slope of the famous Devil's Hill.

British Introduce Powerful Machine

The British army has just introduced in this war a powerful armored machine which is reported to be doing deathly work, and are called Tank Forts.

These armored ships on land are mounted on four caterpillar tracks, which not only make the machine invulnerable to being captured, but enable it to cross ditches and hills of using a caterpillar track has been worked on for the past 16 years, and the problem was solved finally by equipping the machine with engines of such tremendous horsepower that they are able to pull the heaviest harvesting machines and even transport extremely rough ground.

First Threshing Report Shows Good Yield

For the past few weeks there has been great speculation as to how this year's crop would compare with last year's. As the 1915 yield was phenomenal it is hard to hope this year would come any way near it but the threshing returns so far this fall would indicate that the farmers of this immediate district will have another bumper crop to market.

L. Belhumeur, of the Ross Springs district, is among the first to thresh and market his grain and the result is proving most encouraging. On the whole his wheat crop is about thirty-five bushels to the acre. What that was yielded in an stubble now 25 bushels to the acre. The spring plowing went over 27. A good percentage of his crop was on early fallow and this went over 40 bushels to the acre.

Mr. Belhumeur is hauling his grain to Redcliff and it is still grading No. 1 northern, netting him $13.50 a bushel.

Britain Prepared Here Saturday

As announced in our last issue, arrangements have been completed to have the new famous film, "Britain Prepared," shown at the Empress theatre here next Saturday afternoon.

These films are the Imperial government's own official pictures of the activities of the British army in the North Sea and consists of ten reels. Kitchener's army in the making is also shown and those who have seen the pictures say they are well worth going miles to see.

As it comes considerably more to see than films, they are charged for the ordinary weekly one it has been found necessary to charge a higher admission fee but it will be lower here than was charged in the cities where these films were first out. The prices here will be 50c and 50c for the evening and 25c and 25c for the evening.

Liberals Sweep B. C. In General Election

The provincial general election held in British Columbia last Thursday resulted in the complete defeat of the Bowser government.

According to last returns it looks as though the Conservatives will not have more than seven members in the new parliament and the Liberals will have 31. One socialist is elected.

In this election all B. C. soldiers serving in Canada or across the pond were given a vote. Of those there were 9,000 in British Columbia, 2,600 in other parts of Canada and 12,000 in the old country.

As none of these soldiers voted will be counted till October 12th the final result will not be definitely known till that time.

The opinion expressed by both parties is, however, that this vote will not materially effect the present standing as it is believed the soldiers were about equally divided.

"Prohibition and Women's suffrage" which were also submitted to the electors at the same time both carried by substantial majorities. In these cases also the exact figures will not be known until the soldiers vote is counted.

The political turnover in British Columbia is one of the most complete which is recorded in Canada. One year ago there was not a Liberal member in the house.

Canadian War Loan Progressing Favorably

The Gazette publishes a list of subscriptions to the Canadian war loan, showing that contributions of $20,000,000 subscribed by the charities and of amounts under $500,000 and omitting a number of large ones which subscribers have declined to make public, a total of $1,562,000 has been subscribed, and decides that "the public is highly encouraging as to the success that has been confidently counted on from the start."

Canadian Casualties During Last Week

It is officially announced that Canadian casualties during the last few weeks were the lightest of any heavy engagement in which they have been engaged. This was due mainly to the exceedingly heavy artillery work and use of the new armored cars.

NO SERIOUS WAR NEWS DURING THE WEEK

Lull May Mean Preparation For Further Offensive—he Allies Hold all the Ground Gained—Greese Uneasy

Although no news of any decisive battles has been reported during the past week this may be taken as good news for the allies. At least they are holding the ground previously gained and no doubt they are following out their own system of taking advantage of a short rest to prepare for a further offensive movement. The latest report from Paris bears out this conclusion, it says:

"In an effort to retrieve in part their lost territory the Germans on Wednesday, during the last week, made violent counter-attacks against the French over a three-mile front in the region of Lorain farm and Bouchaville, north of the Somme."

"In mass formation, the Teutons threw attacks after attacks along the front of 8 1/2 miles in the morning, and till dark, and at the end of the day the French were everywhere holding their positions. The Germans at the battlefield at points was covered with German dead."

"During the fighting the German positions facing the northern part of the village of Bouchaville, but here the French met them with the bayonet and dislodged them. The Germans came in on waves, were repulsed by the French, whose officers were asserting that the Germans at last withdrew in disorder, leaving many dead behind them."

"On the British front the incident weather still holds the opposing side to artillery duels."

The fact of the Bulgarians have been cleared out of Florina, near the western end of the Macedonian front. After occupation of the town by the entente forces, the Bulgarian soldiers held out for a time in several houses, resisting with savage energy. One hundred prisoners were taken in completing the capture of these positions.

The announcement says the Serbians have captured Height 2,625, the highest peak of the Kamenik range, after desperate fighting at close quarters.

The Rumanians have gained a success against the German and Bulgarian troops in the province of Dobruja."

A report from Athens says: There is reason to believe that the Greek government has sent an ultimatum to Germany and Bulgaria, expiring Wednesday night, demanding the immediate release of the soldiers taken prisoner at Kavala.

London reports that the British troops south of Arras, captured 200 German machine guns.

The Patriotic Honor Roll

If an honor roll of those patriots which have done best for the patriotic fund were to be established, the village of Erskine would surely merit a prominent place on it. With a population of only 1,000, Erskine has contributed to the patriotic fund since the first of February the sum of $765.52. It is perhaps not too much to say that if there are no doubt there are other places with similarly creditable showings, but if every locality responded as Erskine has done there would be no problem about raising the patriotic fund. How many communities have done up to the Erskine class when the big campaign starts shortly?

RUSSIANS TAKE PRISONERS AND GUNS.

Russian troops have resumed their closing-in movement on the Galician town of Hlitz, southeast of Lemberg, on the Dniester. The war office has announced recently that the Teutons had been dislodged from positions southeast of Brassay on the Zinta line, northwest of Hlitz, and that the Russians were attacking along the Polysky-Hlitz railway line, where they engaged and captured many prisoners and 20 machine guns captured.

Interesting Letter On Conditions At Battle Front

Michael Robertson, a young farmer from the Howell district who left for the front last fall, writes an interesting letter from France to his parents in Ontario. The letter appeared in an eastern paper and is one of the most interesting from the front we have read. It is most interesting. The following is part of the letter.

"We billeted at a farm. There are houses on the slope, but outside is very dry so long as it doesn't rain. They have fairly decent buildings here, but very old, but they are comfortable and the houses are homelike. The buildings are much the same here as in England. As to the general appearance of the country, much cannot be said in its favor. I never saw better crops of everything. Wheat and oats are as high as a man's head, and clover and grasses in abundance. The farms are quite small judging by the narrowness between buildings, but as far as I can see there is absolutely nothing to tell where the boundary of each farm is. All around the open, which cuts up the ground considerably, have been more potatoes since coming to this country than I ever saw in my life. There are lots of beans and mangolds, but no turnips, but lots of other garden truck. All the fields and houses are very clean, as the rows are too close to drive a goat between. They grow some fruit and quite a lot of berry bushes and orchards. The cherries are ripe now. They have binders here, but I imagine most of the cutting is hand labor. Hay appears to be cut with the scythe. The general appearance of the country is the same as England, but with so many hedges. There are scarcely any fences except around some potato fields. The kind of trees in the woods vary according to the soil, but hardwood seems to prevail here in Ontario. Most woods in England are soft, such as pine and spruce. There are lots of hogs grown here. The roads are winding and everywhere it is expected to arrive to the farmers in the shape of operations. They are all prosperous farmers of the district with exceptionally good crops this year. They call it a harvest."

This move on their part is an evidence of their thrift and enterprise. Those in the company are Mr. Burk, L. Burk, G. Dickson, G. Dixon, A. McClellan, L. M. Mansfield, P. Scam and P. H. Weidemann.

Farmers Organize Co-operative Company

Eight farmers west of town have formed themselves into a co-operative company for the purpose of purchasing a threshing outfit and other working together in the interests of all concerned. They call it the Harvestale Co-operative Company.

These men have purchased a 25-horse power Case engine and a 24x4 Case separator. Work has been received that the outfit is now on the way and it is expected to arrive to day or tomorrow. As soon as it arrives it will be put in shape and operations will be commenced to thresh out the farmers in the area. They are all prosperous farmers of the district with exceptionally good crops this year.

Canadians Share in Great Allies Victory

Only very meagre bulletins have been received at the militia department as to the part taken by the Canadian divisions in the big allied gains of the last three days on the Somme front. These bulletins merely state that the Canadians had a conspicuous part in the taking of the ground won and that the casualties are not as heavy as might have been expected considering the ground won and the impetuous character of the Canadian attack.

For what is known of the position in the British line held by the men from Canada, there is no doubt but that they are doing a magnificent job. The "Danube trench," as mentioned in Sir Douglas Haig's dispatches, was placed to their credit. It was also believed that they had something to do with the capture of Martinpuich and Corveille.

The Serbian success in the Florina region continues. They have captured Krushard, eight kilometers northwest of 10 kilometers northwest of Gornichovo, while the Serbian cavalry has reached Roma, and is still advancing.

At 9 o'clock Tuesday night the jury assembled to hear the case brought on by the Ontario Government against Mr. L. A. of Northern, of accepting a bribe in connection with the "banish the bar" bill of 1915, returned to the court and informed Sir Frederick Haultain, judge presiding, that they could not arrive at a verdict. They said the jury was so divided that they could not arrive at a verdict. They said the jury was so divided that they could not arrive at a verdict. Interesting Lecture in Presbyterian Church

The lecture given in the Presbyterian church last Friday evening by Rev. J. B. Huestis proved to be one of the most interesting and instructive ever given in this time.

The subject "War and National Ideas" afforded ample opportunity for dealing with questions which are prominent in the minds of all at the present time, and the manner in which the speaker dealt with them was interesting and instructive.

After reviewing the causes which led up to Britain's decision to enter the conflict he pointed out that whether she was defeated or victorious on the battlefield she must eventually come out the victor, as we are not fighting for self aggrandizement but for something infinitely better. We might have kept out of the conflict and saved our skins but we would have lost our soul.

The speaker maintained that the people must gain by the present war. A new Britain would arise and a new Canada appear, and at the conclusion of hostilities people would look at all questions from the public welfare in a different light. This war is teaching us, said the speaker, how selfish we are, how little of brotherhood and self sacrifice. The development of these characteristics would aid materially in solving many of our problems which would present themselves after the war.

The gathering for the occasion was not as large as it should have been but we are more if Mr. Huestis ever gets the way again he will get a better response.

MORE WORK IN SIGHT FOR THE RED CROSS

Demands Are Growing as War Proceeds—The Local Branch Asked to Adopt Prisoners and Send Mails Presents to Canadians

At the regular meeting of the Red Cross society held last Tuesday evening the reports submitted from the different branches of the work showed that this branch is in a flourishing condition and has been doing some excellent work in the past, with promising prospects for the future.

The letter received from the central organization reminding the branch of the growing demands upon the society as the war proceeds and pointing out that the aim this year was to raise two dollars for every one was also read. It also stated that the society was in need of funds at the present time to purchase surgical supplies. The treasurer was therefore instructed to forward a check for $80.00 to be applied to this fund.

A letter was also read stating that it was the intention of the society in Canada to organize a Christmas present for each of the Canadian boys now in hospitals. These presents were to be in the form of a pair of socks, one to be filled with articles such as pencils, pads, sweaters, and tobacco. The local branch was asked to contribute its share for this purpose. It was decided we should take part in this work and as a means of procuring the necessary funds it was decided to hold an afternoon tea in Reid's hall on the 29th of this month. The ladies of the town were asked to provide the necessary refreshments.

Another letter was read drawing attention to a scheme inaugurated for the purpose of supplying Canadian prisoners in Germany with a weekly package of comforts. To do this it was estimated that $2.00 per month for each prisoner. Each local branch was asked to adopt as many prisoners as they feel they can support with this monthly allowance. To make this amount up it was decided that the monthly collectors be asked to try and get an additional five or ten cents a month from each contributor. If this was done it was estimated that this branch could adopt at least two prisoners.

Mr. J. Harbord was elected to act on the executive committee. The treasurer submitted the following financial statement:

Says Politicians Need Prayerful Meditation

Sir George Foster, in an address at Prince Rupert, said that as an old public man he would like to counsel the successful candidates in the election to try and realize their responsibilities in helping to govern a province. When war is on, he said, they should spend many an hour in prayerful meditation. There was never a time in the history of the west when radical changes like woman suffrage and prohibition called for deeper thought. The speaker, who gave a brilliant speech to a packed house, referred to the war as cementing the interdependence of the British people. THE SOLDIER'S CHRISTMAS

To those of us who are at home enjoying the comforts of peaceful Canada it may seem a little early to be thinking about Christmas presents, but when we think of the less fortunate Canadian boys who are in hospitals in France or in the British Isles, and of the time it takes to prepare parcels and get them across the ocean, it is none too early to be thinking about their Christmas and Christmas presents.

It is the aim of the Red Cross Society to see that every Canadian in the different hospitals gets a small Christmas token from Canada and in order to simplify matters and make these presents uniform, a central committee has been appointed to look after the work. With this object in view each subordinate society is asked to give what it can to get towards making up these presents. To raise their share the ladies of the local branch have decided to give an afternoon tea in Reid's hall on Friday, Sept. 22nd.

It was our intention in writing this article to make a special appeal to our readers to make this tea one of the greatest successes of the season, but we feel that all that is necessary to guarantee this is to remind you that your presence at the tea will help to make some poor wounded Canadian boy happy on Christmas Day.

RAISED UP

Sir George Foster is touring the west for the purpose of getting posted on industrial conditions and learning something about the hearing of the country to encourage industrial development after the war.

Since power is one of the most important items to consider in manufacturing lines, one would naturally think Sir George would visit the great natural gas belt when on such a mission. He evidently doesn't think so, however, as he is passing this district up like a pay train passing a tramp.

When Sir George gets back east he intends holding an exhibition of all goods which Canada is now importing with the hope of inducing Canadian manufacturers to make these goods here. This is a good idea but he should also be in a position to tell prospective manufacturers about the cheap fuel in this district.

It would also be a good idea if at the same time Sir George has his show in the east, west men manufacturers have an exhibition of the goods already made in the west.

THE UNGODLY WEST

The carrying of prohibition in British Columbia last week will mean that when the act is put into force in that province Canada will be dry from the Ottawa river to the Pacific coast, a distance of almost two thousand miles of continuous territory.

In this progressive movement it can quite properly be said that the "ungodly" west has set the pace, as the three provinces west of the great lakes were the first to banish the bar.

Nor is it only in regard to prohibition that the west has set the example along the line of advanced legislation. As the three most western provinces have also granted to women their franchise.

Since all this was done by the men and without women's vote it proves two things: first that the men are not such a bad lot after all, and secondly, that with the women voting in the future it is only reasonable to assume both those measures are on the statute books to stay.

WHY THIS WORRY?

The Calgary Albertan, a paper which is usually very fair in its editorials, appears to be quite worked up over the report that R. B. Bennett is to become leader of the Conservatives in Alberta. The Albertan appears to think this change would mean that the Conservative party would all go to the bow-wows, at least so far as Alberta is concerned. If that should happen is it not just what the Albertan would like to see? Why, then, all this spilling tears in its assumed anxiety for the welfare of the Conservative party? It is not hard to read between the lines.

A change in the leadership of the opposition in this province at the present time could not possibly do any harm, and if the change meant placing a man with the ability and experience of R. B. Bennett at the head of the party it certainly would strengthen it.

There is no doubt that the desire for a prohibition in Alberta a year ago last July had a stimulating effect on the rest of Canada and is largely responsible for the rapidly growing prohibited area. It is estimated that when the local option districts in other provinces are taken into account, eighty per cent of the people of Canada will be under some form of prohibitory legislation on our next national birthday.

Since the Dominion government has appointed Sir Thomas Tait to take control of the mobilizing of Canada in army and workshop, some opposition papers claim such a responsible position should be filled by a member of the government. If a member of the government had been appointed the same papers would say such an important matter should be taken out of politics and run by an independent commission. It's hard to please one who is "agin the government."

We have heard considerable complaining lately about the want of proper ventilation in some of our public buildings and we understand the board of health intend taking the matter up. While we are great believers in lots of fresh air and good ventilation we would also recommend the old-fashioned Saturday night bath with special attention to the pedal extremities as a preventative of foul odors in a crowd. Unfortunately the board of health has no power to make this compulsory.

The Kaiser has issued instructions as to how the Huns must celebrate all victories. Among other things church bells are to ring on these occasions. Judging from events of the past few weeks it will be a long time between cases. It looks like another case of "Kerfuss shall not ring tonight."

The planless effect of the siren when sounded for the first yesterday morning shows plainly that it is sadly in need of repair. We are told that the whistle does not get the full effect of the pressure it is supposed to get on account of some defect in the piping. If this is the case the leak should be fixed at once as the siren can now scarcely be heard at any distance from the fire hall.

When the Red Cross collectors go around to see you next month just think of the half fed Canadian prisoners in Germany, then add another ten of fifteen cents to your subscription.

Couldn't Help It

Miss Isabelle Love, the actress, accused a little girl who was entering one of the fashionable New York fairs, where she knew the rules were exceedingly strict, and after some little conversation said:

"How does it come that you live in these fairs? I thought they would not take in children. How did you get in?"

"Why," replied the child, "I was bored in."

Wanted Them to Know

"Fried in Land"

A certain minister was greatly disturbed by a number of women in his congregation who persistently gossiped in a loud tone during service. One Sunday morning he extended a plan which he had devised to stop this annoyance. At a given signal the choir stopped on a certain word in the middle of a hymn. Then one of the gossips, unable to check herself, was heard all over the church to say: "I always fry mine in land." "As we know," announced the minister, "that she always fries here in land, we will proceed with the singing."

ON BOTTOM FEEDIN'

EVERY time I hear of some fellow wanting enough to know how big a fish he is in a gold mine I think of the preacher who went out to feed a new-washed calf in his flock; not, he claims better than do the same thing the same way again. Somebody has said that there's a lot of men here who are not as good as a student of human nature for over seventy years, that this is a conservative estimate. Two shakers every now and then, and the contest and I reckon there wouldn't be the time-out any other matter. But as old Cy (Humble) says if a fellow didn't "fish" and feed the hook, he wouldn't be half as good a deep-water feeder. Arise a time a fellow gets to know that a brown snail is sweeter to the taste than a spangled fly with a sting. Personally I'm strong on bottom-feedin', myself.

The Prudent Scot
A friend-told the following story of a prudent Scot, or rather of the prudent Scot's wife. They were at sea together in the literal sense—didn't last, but the dinner table. There was sufficient room to produce literal uneasiness, and the husband was seen to be making progress to the sky of the vessel, which his wife intervened. "Remember, John," she said, "you've just had your dinner, and it's paid for!" It was not lost.

New to Her

They gave the lady a room with a private bath adjoining. The next morning the hotel clerk asked: "Well, did you have a good night's rest, madam?"

"No," replied the lady. "The room and bed were good, but I couldn't sleep very much, for I was afraid some one would want to take a bath, and the only way to it was through my room."

Both Were Collectors

A good story is told of Dante Gabriel Rossetti, who was an ardent chivalrous collector. Rossetti died one evening with friends who followed his lead in the matter of china. So each good purpose that the whole dinner was served to beautiful specimens and, for the better display of these, was set out on the table. The salami was served in a solid dish, evidently a precious example.

When the cover was removed Huxley started, heard over to examine the dish, took it in both hands, turned it upside down to see the marks on the back, leaving the salmon on the tablecloth, and exclaimed: "The very dish I was going to get to-morrow!"

The lady was so elated with her triumph at having got in just in time, that she quite forgot the irreverent treatment of her salmon and of her tablecloth.

WOMAN'S "TIDYING UP"

Inevitable Love of Order Means Much Trouble

The average woman "tidies up" as naturally as she eats and drinks. Bathing and dressing are, however, relegated to certain fixed times and seasons, and she is very particular as a rule, with regard to the nature and quality of the articles, solid or liquid, upon which she operates. But there is no case-time for the tidying habit, and nothing to exempt from it, or come amiss to it. The tidying habit is compulsive and all-inclusive—a co-ordinator, critic and municipal destructor combined. Take your own wife, for instance. She will "tidy up" with equal facility, dexterity and completeness, the evening paper you have just brought in and of which you have not read a single word, the cast of flies you have just purchased for tomorrow's fishing excursion up the river, and the key, which is the only one that fits your desk.

She can't help it. The tidying habit, with long indulgence, becomes a dominating passion—like drink or opium. Indeed it would seem to be a form of domestic kleptomania, and the various performances of a somnambulist or a person under hypnotic influence. It would be interesting, indeed, if some powerful hypnotist could by the method of suggestion, for instance, prevail so powerfully over the natural instincts of a woman as to cause her to pass her husband's tobacco pouch, say, without "tidying it up." Hypnotism would win a convert to its efficiency if it could do that.

The average woman has an innate sense of the "eternal fitness of things." Alice must have, or she could not do the things she does. This sense, by some mysterious and occult process which no metaphysical philosopher can define, causes her to conclude that the only proper and possible place for a vest you discarded during the too hot days of the summer, is at the bottom—the very bottom—of the top left-hand drawer of the chest in the attic.

Her hand seems to draw everything to it, just as an electro-magnet makes the iron filings fly toward its all-compelling poles. Once in her clutches, any article, especially if it be one which you require immediately, and which will be vain or useless tomorrow, is doomed to solitary confinement for periods, ranging from six months—very rare instances!—to one hundred years. Indeed, it is thought that an ancient Egyptian papyrus, containing the news of the day, lately discovered in the recess of a wall in an unearthed royal palace, was one which Pharaoh's wife "tidied up" four thousand years ago. It is more than probable.

Roast From Tough Cut
An excellent roast may be made from a very tough cut of beef by the following method: Select a thick cut of the lower round or any other portion that is without bone (this should be 3 or 4 inches thick). Pound flour into the meat on both sides (about 1½ cups of flour can be pounded into 3 or 4 pound piece). The pounding breaks up the fibre and the flour retains the juices. Seal the meat all over and place in a roaster. Pour the contents of a can of tomatoes over the meat. Onion and other seasonings may be added, according to taste. Cook slowly. This makes a tender roast and excellent gravy. It also is very good when sliced cold.

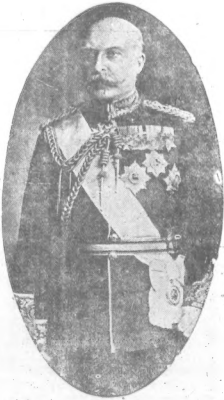

It's always more economical to measure materials in cooking than it is to guess at them.

This trend gown is a fascinating affair with a short full skirt, either knitted or draped in bouffant effect. It is developed in white liberty satin and is quite short and full and finished with a heavy treading at the bottom.

His Steady Eye

Clarence was a medical student, and had not learned enough to understand that what he did not know would fill several large books.

One morning the "house-surgeon" asked him to examine an eye that was in the head of a man who complained of great pain, and to report on the case later.

With a solemn air, Clarence adjusted the ophthalmoscope, and stared seriously and long into the patient's eye. When at last there was no reply, he gave up for the moment, and stood up and said:

"My dear sir—my very dear sir, if you will allow me to say so, you possess a most remarkable eye. I have never, in the whole course of my professional career—had left school about six months previously—seen an eye like this. Has an opinion ever been passed on it before?"

"Well—er, no, not exactly. But the man who shined it in said it was a holy eye like that!"

Up-to-date Detective

Mr. Holmes—I notice that you have a new kitchen maid.

Mrs. Hardcastle—I have. But I think it's a really wonderful how you can make such wonderful deductions!

Mr. Holmes—Quite simple, madam! I've been comparing the thumb-prints on the door!

Municipal hospitals, under the new cooperative plan, are to be covered at Hughton and Brown, Sask. These are comparatively new villages, and Hughton is about 4 on the larger centres.

The British Columbia representative has received 1,200 miles results for 2,400 miles in France, something is doubtless the better for the cause of the equipment of a section of the road. There have been several of the kind of the Atlantic 7,000 miles.

A sudden call came yesterday to all members of the 175th battalion to return to camp at once. As these men had been given permission to remain another two weeks to assist with the threshing, this change in plans would indicate that they are to leave shortly for overseas.

Suffield will hold its first agricultural fair this year. The dates set are October 3rd and 4th. Arrangements have been made for special rail rates for the occasion. As this will be the only fair in this district this year it will no doubt be well patronized.

During the warm weather of the past week a number of boys in town have discovered a swimming hole in which to cool themselves off. As the hole is filled with overflow water from the boiler in one of the industries it is just about the right temperature for bathing.

Harry Johnson, who left on Saturday for Sarcee as a member of the 175th battalion, was the center of a very pleasant surprise last Thursday afternoon, when the boys at the rolling mills presented him with a watch and purse. Mr. Johnson has been employed at the steel plant for the past years.

The mounted police were up here on Sunday looking for a Russian who had deserted from one of the Alberta battalions, and with the assistance of Constable (Dunn) they were successful in locating their man. His name is John Schewrnik, and he was here trying to secure employment under an assumed name in one of the industries.

Since automobiles have become so common the average man has almost forgotten how to hitch up a horse. This was clearly shown in two instances here this week. One man was sent to hitch up a horse and forgot to put the bridle on. He couldn't figure out why he did not have lines to drive the horse and it was not till after he had spent the night leading the horse around by the halter that he learned his mistake. Another young man was asked to hitch up a delivery outfit and when he thought he had everything all right he mounted the wagon seat but was surprised when the horse walked off and left him sitting there. On examination he found he had forgotten to put on the collar end harness.

The exceptionally suitable weather for playing tennis during the past week has made the 'lodge' courts a busy place. Almost every afternoon and evening the courts have been well patronized.

Owing to numerous other attractions the dance given in Ed's hall Monday evening under auspices of the Redcliff lodge was not very well attended. Those who were present, however, spent a most enjoyable evening.

The local Redcliff lodge attended the Banquet service in a body last Sunday evening. There was a good turnout of the members of the lodge, accompanied by members of the Old Fellows. The pastor preached on appropriate sermon and the whole service was much enjoyed.
